

THE INDECISION ALARM

The Indecision Alarm is a band based in a shitty little industrial town called Katrineholm, Sörmland, Sweden. The members have all been involved in a great variety of bands, spanning from singer/songwriter through thrash metal to hardcore punk. The Indecision Alarm is all about energetic and sincere, melodic punk/hardcore with political/personal lyrics.

The Indecision Alarm, 3/4 Adhesive, is anything but an "ex-so-and-so" band! This band really gets how to write great material, and they are dangling elements of all kinds of writing styles over their hardcore undercoat...

Fans of I-Spy, Propagandhi, Hüsker Dü, Hot Water Music and Face to Face (probably up to the black album) will probably dig this sound a lot. Oh, and Adhesive. Duh.

You have to love honest/good people playing great sounding, sincere and honest punk rock.

As of now, The Indecision Alarm have released one self-titled EP that has been greatly appreciated, receiving great reviews through Europe, put out by the American label Tic Tac Totally, and are about to do a split release with Enemy Alliance, (Ex-Satanic Surfers and Venerea) followed by a co-headline tour through Europe in August/September.
